Presents: Travel Honoraria for Qualifying Students at Higher Education Institutions

The CPI Education Center is pleased to announce the availability of travel honoraria for Masters and PhD students at higher education institutions to participate in the 2018 CPI Technical Conference in Atlanta, GA. Oct. 1-3, 2018. There are a limited number of travel honoraria available. Students must submit the following application and abstract to CPI by 5:00 p.m. ET March 16, 2018. The abstract for a paper or poster must pertain to polyurethane chemistry, which CPI expressly defines, for purposes of the honoraria, as the reaction of an isocyanate with a polyol.

Topics for posters or papers can include, but are not limited to these topics below:

- Applications: Automotive, Appliances/Cold Chain, Construction, Furnishings, Recreation, Clothing, Medical, Packaging
- Product Areas: Adhesives & Sealants, Coatings & Elastomers, Binders, Flexible Foam, Rigid Foam, Thermoplastic Polyurethanes, Agriculture
- Chemistry: Chemistry & Fundamentals, Diisocyanates, Renewable Content Polyols, Blowing Agents, Flame Retardants, Release Agents, Catalysts
- Process: Processing Innovations, Equipment
- Issue Areas: Combustibility, EHS, Energy Efficiency, Sustainability/Recyclability, Transportation*

*Abstracts must be new content never presented before.

Students will be notified if their abstract has been accepted on or before April 6, 2018.
