

PROFESSIONAL DEVELOPMENT PROGRAM FAQs

WHO SHOULD ATTEND THE PROFESSIONAL DEVELOPMENT PROGRAM?

The PDP program is designed for both industry newcomers and veterans. Our program is the building block to understand developments in polyurethane products, including basics about the industry, fundamental polyurethanes chemistry, how additives function, and the rigid, flexible and CASE markets.

WHAT TYPES OF COURSES WILL BE OFFERED THIS YEAR?

Courses offered range from Introduction to the Polyurethane Industry to Physical Testing of Polyurethane Foams, and Polyurethane Processing Equipment. Visit our website to see the complete 2019 course list (including a NEW course on composites) as well as course outlines.

DOES IT COST EXTRA TO ATTEND A PDP?

Yes, the PDP tuition fee is a $250 additional fee which covers all of the courses and related materials.

HOW DO I SIGN UP FOR A PDP?

The PDPs run concurrently with the 2019 Polyurethanes Technical Conference. You can register for the PDPs at the same time you register for the conference.

WHICH PDPS CAN I ATTEND ONCE I'VE SIGNED UP?

All of them! Whether attending one of more courses, the single tuition fee covers registration for all courses offered.

For more information visit:
polyurethane.americanchemistry.com/The-Polyurethane-Professional-Development-Program/